finding your way around Leprecon

You've found your way to Leprecon, so now you need to get to the evening social events in Lanigan's Plough.

Go out of Goldsmith, down Lombard Street to the river, left down the Quays, and cross over to Liberty Hall (the towerblock on the river). Keep heading towards O'Connell Street, and take the first right turn. You'll then be at Lanigan's Plough.

If you're stuck, ask for The Abbey Theatre. The Plough is directly across from the theatre.

Oh the Gormanity!

(an introduction from the director)

I would like to take this opportunity (as that's what hero's do) to welcome you all to this years con.

The road to this year's convention has been long and difficult starting with falling of a ladder while trying to answer a phone call to accept the position of con director. Thankful the bonnet of an expensive BMW broke my fall and I managed to escape before the owner saw the damage a fat guy falling 6 feet onto a car can cause.

Each convention follows a similar path and this one was no different step 1 was forming my committee and I'm very grateful to all those who agreed to be involved this year again everyone of them has worked harder than I expected and an awful lot harder than I worked on this myself but come the closing ceremony I intend to steal all the glory.

Its been great fun these last 10 months planning Leprecon 31 we have managed to source some of the best game writers and GMs to ensure you have as much fun at Leprecon 31 as I had running it, also apart from games all weekend we have to of the best professional writers in the business coming as our special guests this year Tracy Hickman and Sandy Mitchell.

I don't know how easy past con directors have had it as this was nowhere near the hardest thing I've had to do all year.

Again I hope you have a great con but if something goes wrong we have a detailed complaints department to deal with that it's a quite simple procedure write it down and place it in the nearest bin as that's where it will end up.

Dave Gorman

A special thank you to...

The Staffers - Cian The Red, Eric Wrafter, Vanessa Phillips, Pete Hudson, Kevin Freed, Mark Christianson, Fergal Monster, Del Boy, Drakol, TAF and all the other people who do lifting, carrying, getting or charming.

Wargames - Ciaran Bolger and Martin Kenny

RPGs and LARPs -Paul Anthony Shortt, Padraic Barrett, Graham Tormey, Graham Turner, Sean Geraghty, Tadeusz Cantwell, Michael Davis, Noirin Curran, Ger Norton, Barry Sheppard, Shane O'hUaid, Brian McNally, Liam O'Tailluir, Aidan Marsh, Alex Tang, Camarilla Ireland, Sandra Duggan and Nick Huggins

CCGs - Eoin Burke for much hammer-waving to get us yet another awesome Kotei

Thanks to everyone in Goldsmith Hall and Lannigan's Plough for making Leprecon not just a possibility but just damn fun.

Trinity Gamers: A quick shepel

Deep in the bowels of Goldsmith Hall, a shadowy organisation whose activities are governed by draconian and bizarre rules operates. They come from all walks of life, some are philosophers, some are physicists. All are bound together by a consuming passion, the desire to harness their destiny to deterministic means. They call them "dice".

Trinity Gamers were founded in 1978, and claim to have won a Best Medium Society Award which they may have stolen from their close neighbours JazzSoc. All shades of gamers can be found in their society room, whether your taste is for Dungeons and Dragons, Carcassone, Magic the Gathering or games of the unpublished and psychological variety. One final warning when you make the journey to their domain: the fun is not optional!

RPGs

The Crimson Eagles and the Invaders from Tomorrow! – Paul Anthony Shortt (Spirit of the Century)

Air raid sirens blare across the night sky. Battle Zeppelins drop bombs on London. Nazi forces are advancing across Europe and the threat of a second Great War has never been greater. The year is 1935. A mysterious warlord has travelled from the future to wreak havoc on the past, tearing history asunder. Only the Crimson Eagles can possibly turn the tide and defeat this new menace and stop the Nazis from winning the war before it has even begun!

The Winter of 1854 – Padraic Barrett (Call of Cthulhu)

Citizens of Sevastopol pay HEED

Vice Admiral Nakhimov (Late of the Black Sea Fleet)

Will reward any Man, Woman or Child who identifies COLLABORATORS OF THE BRITISH AND FRENCH DOGS THAT BARK AT OUR GATES!!!

And wanted for the MURDER & MUTILATION of five seamen from the steam frigate Vladimir on November 3rd

Help the brave HEROES of the Black Sea Fleet

God save Tsar Nicholas!

The Deep Dark – Graham Tormey (Mouse Guard)

Mice struggle to live safely and prosper among all of the world's harsh conditions and predators. Thus the Mouse Guard was formed, they are escorts, pathfinders, weather watchers, scouts and body guards for the mice who live among the territories.

They do so with fearless dedication so that they might not just exist, but truly live.

Recently reports have reached Lockhaven that tunnels have been uncovered near the town of Copperwood. The locals are worried and someone is going to be sent into the darkness to find out what is there.

Guess who that is going to be?

The deadliest prey – Graham Turner (Savage Worlds / Penny Arcade)

Mr. Bear's Hell Circus is in town; and the good people of New Arcadia shudder at the very thought of the evil contained within its brightly painted tents. Doors are locked tightly, windows shut fast, and the streets deserted come nightfall...deserted that is, save for the Startling Developments Detective Agency, who, once again, find themselves treading without fear in the whispering dark...

A young girl genius- taken. A promise- broken. A sandwich- eaten. To bring down the infernal Mr. Bear, our heroes must recruit the help of the greatest hunter of all...but will even his aid be enough

WWS VI: Operation Olmec – Sean Geraghty (Savage Worlds)

The year is 1941. The armies of Soviet Russia have flooded through Europe and the Far East. The European powers, now united under the European Defence Force, struggle to contain the superhuman Icons and their lesser Super cousins. In America, the US remains technically neutral but gives tacit support to the beleaguered allies. But now an isolated incident in the remote jungles of Mexico is about to change the whole course of the war.

Welcome back to WWS.

Sight Unseen – Tadeusz Cantwell (Dark Heresy)

The Inquisitor activated your group just a few minutes ago. Each one of you grabbed your away bags and what guns were at hand. A flyer is taking you directly to the spaceport. Information is lacking, a report stripped of classified information is being prepared. Emperor bless you.

The Secret of Ronan Skerry – Michael Davis (Castles & Crusades)

The town of Port Vogey is in distress! For several weeks, no ships have come into port, and no-one knows why. Now the new moon has passed and the lighthouse keepers, the monks of the Sea Goddess, have missed their monthly trip into town for supplies. The town council are not sure whether this is due to mishap or foul play, but you have heard they are looking for some eager adventurers to investigate.

This game will be played using the Castles and Crusades RPG, an easy to learn, rules-lite game system based on earlier editions of Dungeons & Dragons.

The Quest for the Blue Rose – Noirin Curran (GURPS: Disney)

Once upon a time...

That's how it ALWAYS begins – once upon a time. Well, the time is now, your princess is missing, and all the princes seem to have disappeared, and it's up to you to show them all what you're made of!

Surely you can prove yourself to be cuter than all those other talking animals, more useful than the other animated-inanimate objects, stronger than the rest of the himbo princes, more evil than the vilest of evil stepmothers, and shinier than a flock of fairy godmothers!

Be sure to get your princess home in time, lest she turn into a pumpkin!

The Ebon Express – Ger Norton and Barry Sheppard (D&D Eberron 4th Edition)

The Tribunal of Thronehold has brought hundreds of war criminals to justice since the end of the last war, but never one as big as this.

Now the Ebon Archons, the elite team who captured him, are only one Lightning Rail ride away from bringing him to justice, if they can only keep him alive.

LARPS

Where There's a Will – Shane O'hUid, Brian McNally and Liam O'Tailliur

Old Granda Frank has passed away, rest him. Sure it's probably for the best that he's up there with May again, forgive me for saying it but towards the end he had some notions in that head of his. The funeral was grand, it's a shame but it's one of the few things that brings the family together, from all the various walks of life and corners of the world. There was a bit of bother over who's going to get the wine cellar and who's getting the Jaguar, but sure we'll find all that out this afternoon now, at the will reading. I'm sure Granda Frank made the right decisions.

The Demon-Zombie-Ghost Pirate Le Chuck is dead... – Aidan Marsh & Alex Tang

...Again.

With any luck though, this time he'll stay down for good.

Unfortunately, this leaves the local in something of a predicament. Le Chuck was the most feared pirate around, and now that he's gone there are rather a lot of pirates who wouldn't mind the position. Swords will clash an insults will fly as the applicants gather in the Scumm Bar to determine who will hold the title of Most Dreaded Pirate of the Tri-Island Area.

The Kingdom – Camarilla Ireland

"An object that struck the MacGillycuddy's Reeks on Saturday, causing a mysterious illness among local residents, was a rare kind of meteorite, scientists announced today.

A team of Student researchers confirmed the origins of the object, which crashed near Kilorglin.

No statement about the illness which is affecting locals was given although a local GP has said it is probably just a coincidence."

Something weird is going on in County Kerry.

Christmas in Valhalla – Sandra Duggan

Every year the gods from all walks of life from all around the world descend on Valhalla to enjoy the festivities. There's music, dancing, wine, women and song just for starters.

But what happened to those lesser gods that don't get invited? Those who aren't welcome at the hippest party in these parts? What would aeons of bitterness and being the social outcast do to anyone? Want to find out?

JumpTech 6: Damocles – Nick Huggins

Strange things are afoot and coincidences abound in the four systems. How can a trio of JumpShips be sighted in foreign space when there are only seven such craft, all of which are accounted for? Data storage units have been found, hinting at the origins of a lost civilisation, but can it really be coincidence that three of them were found almost at the same time on several different worlds? The war between the Humans and the Teth may be over, but a greater conflict lies on the horizon. Can the governments and the Jump families survive while still squabbling amongst themselves?

One-off Games

Powergrid Saturday 11am: You're in charge of a power company whose aim is to power the most houses. You are not alone however.

Others

have the same aim and will ruthlessly cut you off if you get in their way. You are no alone however others have the same aim and will ruthlessly cut you off if you get in their way. Do you think you have the power to win? Price €1

Battlestar Galactica Saturday 1pm and Sunday 11am: Who do you trust most, the President or the Admiral? Anyone could be a cylon, intent on destroying the human race. It could even be you! You must battle to save or destroy the human race in this game of intrigue and secrecy. Price €1

Ticket to Ride Saturday 3pm: Take charge of a rail company as it attempts to connect the cities of America but beware: others might try to cut you off! Price €1

Caylus Sunday 1pm: You've been charged with the completion of the king's castle, however you must do better than the other Master Builders. Gather resources, win jousts and construct the castle to win the most prestige and the king's favour.. Price €1

Carcassonne Sunday 3pm: If you haven't played it yet you must do so now. This deceptively simply tile laying game packs a lot more depth and planning then meets the eye. Your mission is to grow the city of Carcassonne and on the way make sure you control the most of it. Price €1

Irish Kotei 2010

Legend of the Five Rings is a game where the players are able to shape the storyline, where the most important moments are those where you can benefit your Clan. Not just the characters in the epic tale of the Empire of Rokugan, but your fellow players. You can be lauded as a hero, booed as a villain or banished forever depending on your decisions while you play a card-game. This is something you don't get anywhere else.

The Kotei season is the time each year when this joyful hysteria reaches a crescendo. From March to July, all across the world, samurai will rise to their feet at the traditional cry of "Utz!" and respond in their loudest yell, "Banzai!" You'll hear it this Leprecon, no matter where you are. Along with the pageantry of the costumes and banners and the spectacle of old friends and enemies sharing a battlefield once more, this battle-cry epitomises a player-base who are dedicated and fiercely loyal. We're very glad to have them on our side.

This year also sees the return of the Mega Game, where the players can contribute to their Clan's success not just by winning the card-game but in other ways too. In Dublin, the players will be asked to make a banner for their Clan out of materials provided, with the best banner winning the Spirit Prize. The Plague War is the latest threat facing the Rokugani, and whether they stand or fall is all down to the players. Whether they are the final winner of the Dublin Kotei or the recipient of the Quentin McSiskey Memorial Prize for Last Place, every single participant will be remembered!

Star Wars: (Graham Turner & Dave Gorman)

It is a time of Civil War in the Galaxy, as the brave few freedom fighters of the REBEL ALLIANCE battle against the massed forces of the evil GALACTIC EMPIRE. In space, the Alliance and Empires fighters and capital ships duel in the void, while on the ground, earthshaking machines of war march to war, while the poor bloody infantry fight desperate actions for survival.

Return to Dahomey (Donagh McCarthy)

US Marines arrive to rescue any surviving Americans abandoned upriver last October. Surely a trained military force will succeed where brazen adventurers failed?

Return to Dahomey is a pulp adventure game. Take control of the stalwart marines as they brave the terrible dangers of the dark continent...

Unknown Quantities (Nicholas Whyte)

The Night of Mists brought legions of undead to Egypt, Minotaurs to Rome and a crusade from the Han Dynasty. Since then these three empires have clashed to control the world.

Within sight of Syracuse, Alexandria and Troy, is Atlantis, back from the dead. Each of these mighty empires have sent an army to conquer this new land. Minotaurs, undead and Foo Lions will clash to determine the fate of this new continent.

Unknown Quantities is a casual beginner Campaign of Arcane Legions for 3 players. Come and go as you like, enjoy the campaign and the Con.

Pirates of the Somali Coast (Graham Tourney) 50c per game, proceeds go to Charity.

Piracy is on the rise again, as modern day Long John Silvers plunder the rich trade routes off the Horn of Africa. The navies of the world are finally responding to the threat, but is it too little, too late?

Nuns and Ninjas (Oisín Creaener)

Get thee to a nunnery! The Holy Sisters of the Saintly Sanctuary are sworn to silence, and none may trespass upon their prayers. When the sanctity of the convent is breached, what are the nuns to do? Sister Superior has been slain. Silently, the sisters must save themselves from slaughter!

A game in the style of the Werewolves of Miller's Hallow, played in silence...

Greetings fair reader, you have reached the page of WAR! Turn back ye of faint heart, for what lies below is only for those who love battle, the sort who loves the smell of napalm in the early afternoon, or who would rather die than live a life of peace. Here be the details of the engagements that shall be fought over the course of this weekend. Many of these battles are only for those who have thought ahead to bring an army with them, but there are some engagements where an aspiring general shall be supplied a force and turned loose upon the field. Read on ye of noble standing and great strength, there are many foes to defeat and much treasure to be claimed.

Warhammer 40k, 1750 Points

This year Leprecon is once again proud to host a 2-day Warhammer 40k tournament which should see some of the finest (or at least some of the) players in Ireland pit their armies against each other in hopes of winning both glory and a painted 1000-point Ork Army. If you don't have an army with you feel free to watch the tournament progress and offer helpful advice like 'Don't let his lascannons hit your tank.' Bets regarding which army will win will be considered but the Wargames coordinator makes no promises to pay back any of them. Entry into the tournament is 20 Euro and includes a weekend pass.

Warmachine and Hordes, 35 Points

All day Sunday our lovely local Pressganger will be running a 35 point 2010 Steamroller tournament using the latest Mark II Rules (that's the Jan. 29th pdf for Hordes) which should be some dangerous and thrilling fun. Prizes have yet to be determined for this fine event, but we promise they will be awesome. Entry into the tournament is 20 Euro and includes a weekend pass

-Stuart Gorman, Warmaster General

for the con. Do be warned though, this event is not for sissies.

Warhammer Ancient Battles, Demo

Throughout the weekend we will have demo games of Warhammer Ancient Battles running in the main hall so feel free to drop by the table and play a game or two. This is the perfect event for settling those drunken arguments you had in the pub the previous night about whether Vikings would really have beaten Carthaginians, assuming you remember the next day that is. In either case it'll be good fun so give it a try.

Battletech, Demo

On Saturday we will have a member of the Catalyst Demo Team running participation demos of Battletech so if you ever wanted to try out some old school tabletop Mech combat this is your chance. It'll be interesting and educational at the very least and should offer some fun times as well so drop by the table with the Mechs on it and give it a go, I promise it won't do you any harm.

Leprecon's not just about the gaming, ya know. It's about other kinds of fun, too. The non-optional kind. No con would be complete without its pub, and this year we've got something new and shiny for you! In a break from tradition, this year's Leprepub is Lanigan's Plough on Abbey Street, just ten minutes from Goldsmith Hall. Staff and committee will be leading expeditions from Goldsmith, and with the 50c bus fare into town it's really spitting distance. Drinks promotions over the weekend include discounts on your favourite beers if you're wearing a Leprecon pass, a venue that serves food 'til reasonably late, and a private entrance to the pub. Yep, we're so awesome we've got our own private entrance.

-Noodle, Boozemonger

Friday: Beering! Leprecon pubbage has gone down in history for the heroic misadventures of the con attendees. In the name of History herself, catch up with your mates, have a few drinks* and plot Gorman's demise. Wait, I'm not supposed to say that....

Saturday: Leprecon's infamous pub-quiz returns. It'll be a challenge. Table 5 will probably be there. You know you want to stick it to those guys. For those of you not wishing to take part, first off you're giving an inch, and you all know what that means. However, you should stick around and have a few drinks.*

Sunday: Bray's finest band, Duck and Cover, return to Leprecon. In a previous life a number of them were known as No Standing, they're as awesome as ever, and they're here to rock us out of Leprecon XXXI!

* The committee advises you to drink responsibly. However, if you decide to ignore this advice, you'll be in good company. Ours.

The Iron Basterd Has Landed. Starring: Dave Gorman as Commander in Chief

“...Must See...”* – The Daily Mail

* “Any citizen with a shred of decency must see that they do their part in ensuring that this travesty of a film is banned from our screens and that Dave Gorman is never seen again”

Emperor Orange. Starring: Oisín Creaner as Himself/Special Events/Assistant Con Director

“This film has to be seen to be believed. Fortunately, our reviewers all called in sick, so our official stance is to refuse to believe that it exists. In response to the requests from those trying to convince us to review this film, we have the same answer we give to those who are adamant in convincing us that there were sequels to The Matrix or Highlander: The Rabbit at the wheel in your head is drunk. Drunk and an idiot.” – The Leprecon Eye

A Fatzful of Dollars. Starring: Fergal “Fatz” Fanning as RPGs & LARPs

“★★★★★ (and he didn’t even have to bribe us. Honest)”

LEPRECON HOUSE. Starring: Eoin “Siskey” Dornan as RPGs & LARPS II

“To Stupid to Insult! -★★★★★”

Revenge of the 50 Foot Munchies. Starring: Cian “Icecream” O’ Sullivan as Trade Guy #1

“Revenge of the 50 Foot Munchies made the majority of viewers wish they could perpetrate violence of this scale on the creators of the movie itself for making them sit through it. Icecream, however, is a man of all seasons...if all of those seasons are Winter!” – The Leprecon Eye

Eldritch and Old Lace. Starring: Aidan Marsh as the Staff Co-ordinator

“TERRIBLY GOOD!”* – The Irish Sun

*“This movie was not terribly good.”

The Boering Identity. Starring Aidan “Duggy” Duggan as CCGs Co-ordinator

“Dear Director, we would happily accept death as a welcome alternative to the boredom caused by watching this “movie”. Thank you. Yours, the general public.” – TheDailyGormanifest.Com

BAT COUNTRY!: Starring: Baz Nugent as Productions Guy

“Sitting in the theatre with the strobe-like flickering of this film is the virtual equivalent of a traumatic experience involving a screwdriver, a fiery red-head, and being a contestant on a talent show while snorting cocaine off a charging rhino’s horn.” – The Irish Sun

Vengeance of the White Cobra. Starring: Stuart “GUSA” Gorman as Wargames Director

“I have not, as of yet, seen any of the sure-to-appear GUSA merchandise, but I assure you, dear readers, that as soon as it hits the shelves, the child-labour produced action figures will line the shelves for months to come, unsold, until the price drops sufficiently that I do not feel wasteful in buying a GUSA action figure merely for the satisfaction of consigning it to the flames – literally.” – The Leprecon Eye

The Littlest Unicorn: A new Disney Classic, Starring: Kathryn Lamb as Guest Co-Ordinator

“The cutesy cheesiness of this movie made me feel like vomiting stardust, pink candyfloss and starshine! I STILL can’t get the rainbow coloured stain out of the carpets!” – The Daily Blah

March Against The Ice Witch: Starring Emily Noonan as Treasurer

“To call the acting wooden would be an insult to the overly compensatory epic fantasy staff.” – The Leprecon Eye

A Dame Worth Two Shots- Starring: Niamh “Noodle” Carey as Social Events Co-ordinator

“You know the feeling when you get an itch right in the centre of your head that you can’t possibly reach? That’s what this film feels like.” – The Leprecon Eye

The Brain of Doom. Starring: Alex “Uber” O’Connor as Teh Webmaster

“To say that there are plot holes in Uber’s backstory is as much of an understatement as implying that Jar Jar Binks was the unsung hero of the Star Wars films.” – The Evening Whatever

The Critic. A Documentary starring: Noirin “of a higher rank than Siskey” Curran as ‘Spin Doctor’

“Hordes of imbeciles flocked to the cinema to watch this new ‘epic’ although discerning members of the public noted that they would rather watch Barney the Dinosaur for four hours solid than have to sit through this piece of rubbish.” – The Daily Male
