

The Language of Magic

Note that there are no vowels. The combination of letters and vowels is shown in the second chart. If the combination does not exist, for example XA, then the vowel is excluded. I's are shown as a double E, so bite would read as Be-be-te. U's are shown as a double O, so HUT would read as Ho-ho-t. The one exception is QU, which reads as Q. If a vowel follows another vowel, the second vowel is excluded, so PEAR would read PE-R. K's are translated to Cs.
