Jinniu Gun Arm

CYBER. You can use your finger to shoot, as if it were a cap gun prop. Instead of firing a cap, you merely have to point your finger and shout BANG. Otherwise it works like normal shooting.

Armored Vest

If you are shot while you have this item, you have an additional 5 minutes to find a doctor or cybertechnician, even if you were shot by an Ace Eight faction member, in which case you have five minutes to find a doctor or cybertech, when normally you'd just die in five minutes. The synthetic ballistic cloth looks just fine under your clothing. The Vest does not work for someone committing suicide. The benefits stack with the benefits of Stim, but multiple Vests provide no additional benefit.

Prototype Ultrasound Device

Touch someone on the back while holding this card. Then tell one of the people running the game that you have done so, and to whom. That victim will die in two hours, bleeding from all orifices. (You could make it slower if you wanted, but you must tell the GM this.) Only one person at a time can be killed this way. You can change victims, but the time count starts over with the new victim. Anyone who has this card can take it to the people running the game and find out who its attuned to, if anyone, and turn it off. During the two hours (or however long), the GMs can tell the victim (s)he is in pain.

Humanoid Robot Body From Gnerst

CYBER. You cannot be killed by normal means. Bullets bounce off of you, and poisons do not work. No one can take this card from you, even if you somehow get killed – an ultrasound device could kill you, but the humans don't seem to have developed the technology yet.

Contherm Chemsniffer

CYBER. You can tell if someone has handled a drug in the last hour, and what drug they handled. Show this card to the person you're examining, and they must tell you out-of-character what drugs they've handled in the last hour. You must be within one foot of someone to use this device. In addition, if you sniff someone's breath, you can tell if they're currently on a drug; again, show the player this card, and the player must tell you out-of-character what drugs the character is on, if any. Note that data from this device is almost never admissible in court.

Black Market Psionic Implant

CYBER. Once per hour, you can use this device to read another player's character packet, learning all that character's secrets.

Also, whenever someone makes a statement, you can show this card to the player and the player must tell you, out of character, if he or she was lying or not. Whenever you use the implant this way, the character you use it on gets a terrible headache.
