

The world is ending, at least as everyone knows it. With the Resonance Virus running rampant among the population and having developed an immunity to earlier cures, an assortment of the elite and those who happened to be near them at the time have been herded into bunkers across the nation. At one such bunker, scientists who were involved in the Resonance Project have been working around the clock on a new cure. As the hospital ward in the underground bunker is sealed, all anyone can pray for is that they will be among those who survive this apocalypse.

What have you done? You let the Department of Defense turn your Braiden's Syndrome research into a weapon, and now that weapon is destroying the country, and possibly the world. How can you be safe in this bunker when the world is collapsing around you? Your son isn't here. What has happened to your son? You know he can handle the virus, the cure had worked very well in him, but what will happen to him out there alone? Can he get food? Will anyone help him? You have heard that the last throes of Resonance can make people violent. You should have known when they started calling it an "empathy virus," as if that was what they believed children with Braiden's lacked, that something was terribly wrong.

Your spouse. What happened to your spouse? Everyone is dying. What's happening? Everything hurts. Everyone hurts. You must have let your son infect you. You were so careful. If you die you can't save your son. Is your spouse alive? You were working on the antidote. Is it ready?

Where is your son? Is he ok?