Jack Marwood

JACK MARWOOD

Age: 65

Partner at the law-firm Marwood, Quade & Wriedt

NEW YORK, April 7th 1981

Multi-billionaire Bob Beeltz has today been found not guilty of all charges. Beeltz was facing a life time in prison for torturing, killing and eating seven teenage girls, but his lawyer, Jack Marwood, pointed out errors in the technical evidence and this was enough for reasonable doubt.

The legendary Jack Marwood. The undefeated star lawyer, who led the defense for celebrities and rich people all through the 80s, 90s and 00s. A recognizable face from tv – both loved and hated. You didn't care about the hate, in fact you found it awesome to stand as a symbolic f finger to all the moralists at the coffee tables and on the streets. F them! You have just done your job and you have done it well. Especially after the case where you on a technicality got the multi-billionaire, Bob Beeltz, who everybody, including you, knew had tortured, killed and eaten seven teenage girls. Your job is to defend your client – that no prosecutors could remotely measure up to you is not your problem.

You have also been admired. You have given interviews to all the great magazines. People have seen you with models on yachts and in fast cars. Men wanted to be you and women wanted to be with you. You have had more women than you could count. Four times you have been married, but each time a younger, more beautiful model came around. Especially in the 80s and 90s it went crazy with a lot of parties, coke and high intensity. There's nothing like doing a line of coke from the inner thighs of a young, hopeful model.

By now, it is many years since your prime. The head is not as sharp as it was, so for many years, you made sure to only get easy cases. You know that your colleagues behind your back talk about you as a has-been, who should retire – but who are they? They are mere mortals – their opinions are nothing to a legend like you!

Keywords: Famous, has-been, not as sharp anymore, models and coke, four marriages, hates moralists.

NEW YORK, April 26th 1986

He is one of New York's most desirable bachelors. With his toothpaste smile and sparkly eyes the star lawyer Jack Marwood can seduce everybody – women as well as juries – they all fall at his feet.

Sophie Wolfe

Age: 29

Lawyer at the law firm Marwood, Quade & Wriedt

"Walking cleavage", "She wouldn't have to walk many times around my bed...", "She is fing her way to the top". That is how you are used to being seen at Marwood, Quade & Wriedt as a young and attractive woman in a man's world. Always talked down to, never recognized. You were the top student your year at Yale, but they don't notice that. You have often been underestimated based on your sex and appearance – but that also has the advantage that nobody notices your scheming.

Your name is not even Sophie Wolfe, but Hannah Jones and you come from a poor family. The real Sophie Wolfe died during a hike in the mountains, so you took her name and her scholarship to get in to Yale.

NEW HAVEN, June 12th 2018

A new batch of students graduate. Among the most talented this year at Yale is the law student Sophie Wolfe

NEW YORK, August 20th 2018

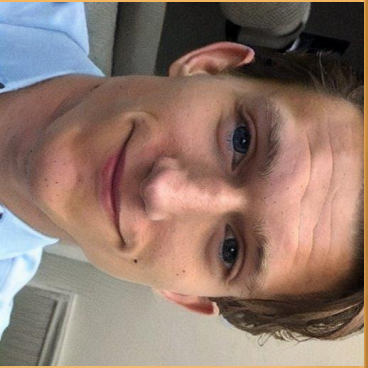

Today we bring portraits of young women on their way to the top. Among these is Sophie Wolfe who has just been hired at the big law firm Marwood, Quade & Wriedt.

You are good at manipulating people. With your kind smile and big doe-eyes, nobody expects that you are manipulating them – which is actually something you do a lot. You are also good at wrapping the juries around your little finger – that is something that makes you a great lawyer.

You want to get to the top of Marwood, Quade and Wriedt. You lie, when it is to your advantage and feel no scruples hurting other people to get what you want.

Keywords: Victim of sexism; attractive; intelligent; ambitious; unscrupulous; underestimated; another person than you claim to be.

Francis Quade Jr.

FRANCIS QUADE JR.

Age: 32

Junior-partner at the law-firm Marwood, Quade & Wriedt

Introduction:

NEW YORK, June 15th 2021

The city aristocracy is nepotist. The latest example is Francis Quade Junior, who today got a position as junior partner in his father's big law-firm Marwood, Quade & Wriedt.

"Junior". They say it with a hint of mockery and disdain in their voices. They are dripping with envy. And yes, it is true that your father made sure you got a foot in and he has definitely pushed for a quick advancement for you. But they don't know how it has been growing up with the pressure from a father who has marked you to be his heir and a mother who cared more for going out partying with the other rich housewives than taking care of you children. You have sought your parents' attention, typically by going wild. When you get into trouble, you father comes to make the problems go away – you will get a proper scolding, but that too is a kind of attention.

Actually you didn't want to be a lawyer at all, but would rather do something with your hands. You simply never had a choice. Your father always had such high expectations and they have been really hard living up to. You struggled getting through the studies, so you got through by cheating and giving bribes.

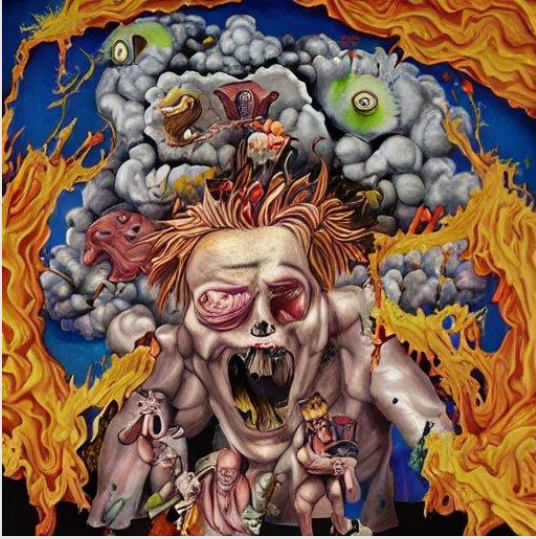

You have always had a temper and have often gotten into fights. One time it also got out in the media. Once you also punched a client who pissed you off.

Keywords: Born with a silver spoon, willing to cheat and do bribes, seeking attention and recognition, hot tempered

Relations

The players choose relations between the characters that are among the reasons why the characters don't like each others. Place them openly at the middle of the table. When the players have read their roles they each choose one relation for each of the other two main characters – thus each pair of characters have two relations between them. The choice is not a secret and the relation can be explained. If it says “the one” and “the other” it has to be decided who is whom – this is decided by the player who chose the relation.

You have had a long term sexual relation that ended dramatically

One of you has spread rumours about the other's genitals

One of you have shared pornographic videomaterial about the other

You ended up in a violent fight during the office Christmas party

One of you sabotaged the other's case

One of you have stolen clients from the other

You have had a serious relationship to the same person

You have robbed a bank together

You used to go drinking together for many years, but ended up with bad blood after a wild night out

One of you have sold drugs to the other

One of you have blackmailed the other with incriminating information

You went to rehab for drug- and alcohol-abuse together

Supporting characters

The following are an array of supporting characters. Lucy is your role as gamemaster. The others can be cut out and be available to both you and the players. The supporting characters are suggestions – the players are more than welcome to come up with others.

Lucy Ferrera

Your primary role as gamemaster. Lucy appears as a young, devilishly beautiful woman. On the surface she appears as friendly and responsive to the characters. But actually she uses their wishes, desires and hatred to bring forth the worst in them.

Behind the facade, she has a devil face that is hidden to the characters until the epilogue.

Lucy is the supporting character you as gamemaster use for the scenes in Hell. Her purpose is to help the players start the courtroom scenes and to sow discord between the characters in the Hell-scenes.

Bob Beeltz

Multibillionaire Bob Beeltz tortured, killed and ate seven teenage girls in the 1980s, but the charges were acquitted thanks to Jack Marwood – who knew very well that Bob was guilty.

As a person, Bob appears as complacent and greasy.

Francis Quade Sr.

Francis Quade Sr. is a serious and stern man, who more than anything in the world cares about the family name. He often helps his son "Junior" get out of trouble.

Vanessa Quade

Married to Francis Quade Sr. and mother of Francis Quade Jr.. Is one of the famous house wives of New York. Known for her diva-attitude and typically seen with a drink in her hand.

George Rasmussen

George is a lawyer at Marwood, Quade & Wriedt. He often makes jokes at the expense of others and enjoys, among other things, to make fun of minorities. He is convinced that the women at work want him, in spite all their rejections.

Beth Jones

Beth is a secretary at Marwood, Quade & Wriedt. A kind and open person, exuberant and extroverted. She knows everything about everybody and gladly shares confidential information.

Tom Walker

Tom is under charges of violent robbery and has several smaller sentences behind him. He is hot tempered and not very intelligent.

Kate Miller-Worthington

Kate is a rich client of great importance to Marwood, Quade & Wriedt. On the surface she is the owner of a high fashion chain with several shops in New York and the rest of the country. But she also controls a big portion of New York's sale of cocaine.

In spite of a polite facade, there is a toughness behind and her icy gaze can give you the chills.

Terrence Wriedt

Terrence Wriedt is partner at Marwood, Quade & Wriedt. On the surface a kind and jovial man, but he also has a temper. Many witnesses have seen him punch a colleague.

Pictures of Hell

The following pictures of Hell can be used by the players as inspiration for the intro scene (not a requirement)
